School funding formula discussion continues

By CHRISTOPHER SOUTH
Cape May Star and Wave

CAPE MAY POINT – On their September meeting, the Cape May Point Board of Commissioners introduced an ordinance designed to cut out smoking on Point beaches.

All three commissioners voted to introduce the ordinance.

“As a non-smoker I’m in favor of it,” Mayor Skip Stanger said. “I’m glad the Environmental Commission took the initiative and came up with a good idea.”

John Gagliardi and his team said the environmental bodies that handle the Point beaches have talked about the ordinance for years.

“Why not do it?” Gagliardi said. “Why not have a ordinance that’s been tested?”

Kathy Bidleman, the director of Environmental Commission, said the ordinance has been in talks for well over a year.

“I think it’s a good idea,” said Cape May Point Environmental Commission’s Chair Edie Schull.

Although the ordinance has been under consideration for a while, the commissioners created a new task force to get it off the ground.

“We started in May talking about the ordinance,” Schull said. “We were talking about how to proceed.”

Run for the Fallen

According to the Cape May Star and Wave, the event would take three days and involve many volunteer runners. See more photos on page A16.

WCM moves ahead on electricity

By CALE CHAMBERLIN
Cape May Star and Wave

WCM moves ahead on electricity

Lowertown Water Company, headquartered at 110-30 Market St., has announced it will soon be starting up underground work in multiple locations around the city of Cape May.

The company is now preparing to do underground work in multiple locations after an order of the court was issued favoring the county of Cape May to join and if residents maintain their payment on their electrical bills, they will continue to be served.

WCM President John Gagliardi said the mechanic who they were found in the area of 76 Avenue consists of the contractor, P.M. Shuel & Sons, Inc., will return to Maple, Willow and Grange Avenue and just in the lower.

“With that done, we can get more work done,” Roberts said.

The contractor will then finish work on Park Boulevard between Lafayette Avenue and Broadway and will then go on to Broad Street and Shuel will be responsible for}

WCM street projects advancing

By CALE CHAMBERLIN
Cape May Star and Wave

WCM street projects advancing

Please see E News, page A9

Please see School, page A2

Christopher South/Cape May Star and Wave

By CALE CHAMBERLIN
Cape May Star and Wave

WCM moves ahead on electricity

Lowertown Water Company, headquartered at 110-30 Market St., has announced it will soon be starting up underground work in multiple locations around the city of Cape May.

The company is now preparing to do underground work in multiple locations after an order of the court was issued favoring the county of Cape May to join and if residents maintain their payment on their electrical bills, they will continue to be served.

WCM President John Gagliardi said the mechanic who they were found in the area of 76 Avenue consists of the contractor, P.M. Shuel & Sons, Inc., will return to Maple, Willow and Grange Avenue and just in the lower.

“With that done, we can get more work done,” Roberts said.

The contractor will then finish work on Park Boulevard between Lafayette Avenue and Broadway and will then go on to Broad Street and Shuel will be responsible for}

WCM street projects advancing

By CALE CHAMBERLIN
Cape May Star and Wave

WCM street projects advancing

Please see E News, page A9

Please see School, page A2

Christopher South/Cape May Star and Wave

By CALE CHAMBERLIN
Cape May Star and Wave

WCM moves ahead on electricity

Lowertown Water Company, headquartered at 110-30 Market St., has announced it will soon be starting up underground work in multiple locations around the city of Cape May.

The company is now preparing to do underground work in multiple locations after an order of the court was issued favoring the county of Cape May to join and if residents maintain their payment on their electrical bills, they will continue to be served.

WCM President John Gagliardi said the mechanic who they were found in the area of 76 Avenue consists of the contractor, P.M. Shuel & Sons, Inc., will return to Maple, Willow and Grange Avenue and just in the lower.

“With that done, we can get more work done,” Roberts said.

The contractor will then finish work on Park Boulevard between Lafayette Avenue and Broadway and will then go on to Broad Street and Shuel will be responsible for}

WCM street projects advancing

By CALE CHAMBERLIN
Cape May Star and Wave

WCM street projects advancing

Please see E News, page A9

Please see School, page A2

Christopher South/Cape May Star and Wave

By CALE CHAMBERLIN
Cape May Star and Wave

WCM moves ahead on electricity

Lowertown Water Company, headquartered at 110-30 Market St., has announced it will soon be starting up underground work in multiple locations around the city of Cape May.

The company is now preparing to do underground work in multiple locations after an order of the court was issued favoring the county of Cape May to join and if residents maintain their payment on their electrical bills, they will continue to be served.

WCM President John Gagliardi said the mechanic who they were found in the area of 76 Avenue consists of the contractor, P.M. Shuel & Sons, Inc., will return to Maple, Willow and Grange Avenue and just in the lower.

“With that done, we can get more work done,” Roberts said.

The contractor will then finish work on Park Boulevard between Lafayette Avenue and Broadway and will then go on to Broad Street and Shuel will be responsible for}

WCM street projects advancing

By CALE CHAMBERLIN
Cape May Star and Wave

WCM street projects advancing

Please see E News, page A9

Please see School, page A2

Christopher South/Cape May Star and Wave

By CALE CHAMBERLIN
Cape May Star and Wave

WCM moves ahead on electricity

Lowertown Water Company, headquartered at 110-30 Market St., has announced it will soon be starting up underground work in multiple locations around the city of Cape May.

The company is now preparing to do underground work in multiple locations after an order of the court was issued favoring the county of Cape May to join and if residents maintain their payment on their electrical bills, they will continue to be served.

WCM President John Gagliardi said the mechanic who they were found in the area of 76 Avenue consists of the contractor, P.M. Shuel & Sons, Inc., will return to Maple, Willow and Grange Avenue and just in the lower.

“With that done, we can get more work done,” Roberts said.

The contractor will then finish work on Park Boulevard between Lafayette Avenue and Broadway and will then go on to Broad Street and Shuel will be responsible for}