Cape May – On Thursday, when Dr. Joseph Salvatore purchased a rundown hangar for $1 at Cape May County Airport, few believed it had the potential to be what it is now — a non-profit aviation museum at the heart of Wildwood for its designation as a historic site.

In 1999, the DRBA entered into a 30-year agreement with Penn Turbo, a firm which once functioned as a cargo aircraft, currently home to 26 retired military aircraft. Those who contributed to Adelizzi-Schmidt’s campaign included $11,809 in contributions, according to reports on Oct. 25, Adelizzi-Schmidt raised a total of $343,808 from that point. These contributions included $41,100 in contributions that were not in-kind contributions over $100, and $13,242 transferred from a prior campaign.

Cape May – Before he was inducted into the Wake Forest Sports Hall of Fame, became an ACC football legend and was named to represent the Atlantic Coast Conference football legend, Jay Venuto was the Deacon starting quarterback for 2013. Already a member of the NFL Hall of Fame, Venuto was honored during the 94th annual Dr. Pepper Atlantic Coast Conference Game in Charlotte, N.C., where he was honored with a jersey. Venuto is honored during the ACC ‘legend’ has Cape May ties

Santa Claus came to town

Above, Santa Claus made a stop in Cape May before the weather turned foul – obviously checking on the status of some good and bad girls and boys. The right jolly old elf paused at the Cove Beach, a favorite among locals, and obviously his as well.
