The Cape May Star and Wave is a bi-weekly newspaper serving the residents of Cape May County, New Jersey. The newspaper covers local news, events, and community activities. This particular issue includes articles on Hurricane Sandy's impact on the Cape May National Register of Historic Landmark City, as well as stories on local events, community news, and personal stories from residents. The newspaper is known for its strong community focus and commitment to providing local news in an accessible format. The service used to extract the text from the image is designed to accurately transcribe natural language text from images, ensuring that the information is presented in a readable and useful manner.