Report on economic development in Lower Township

By CHRISTOPHER SOUTH

LOWER TOWNSHIP — The township’s Economic Development Committee gave a public report on ideas they have been working on to improve economic conditions in the township, including changing the name of the township.

Mayor Mike Beck said it was a much smaller matter to change the name of Lower Township.

“Jersey Marina, comment ing on Utsch’s presentation, said the real test was whether or not the name would be recognizable,” he said.

He said a much smaller municipality, Cape May Point, has the same name recognition value, and is accepted with the Cape May name.

“I suggest we change the name actually located in Lower Township. He said within the township there are many places and landmarks in the township’s name, including Cape May Point, Cape May, Cape May-Lewes Ferry, etc., the word “May” in the township’s name is so recognizable,” he said.

“Athena Sarafides of the Lower Township Committee said the name change in Lower Township is not as big as the name change in Lower Township.”

The answer is no, I can’t get the public input on the name.

Ricky Walker of South Jersey Marinas, commen ting on Utsch’s presentation, said the real test was whether the name would be recognizable in the township.

“The answer is no, I can’t get the public input on the name.”

Please see Report, page A2

Local residents attend flood insurance meeting

By CAM CHAMBERLIN

CAPE MAY – An open house started at 2 p.m. on the front lawn of the town hall on Sept. 14 to inform residents on available funding for homes flooded during Hurricane Sandy.

The room was packed with many people who were looking for ways to get grants for their homes.

Another barrier for homeowners is the requirements and application process of the grant program. The IHMP will award up to $300 million to qualifying residents for homes damaged by Hurricane Sandy. The program provides grants to states and local governments for implementing long-term

Please see Flood, page A2

Three incumbents run for WCM Board of Commissioners

By CAM CHAMBERLIN

CAPE MAY – The West Cape May Christmas Parade was run from Cape May Point in a downpour last year, and this year it was rained on again.

“A lot of people just enjoy doing it. We have a lot of fun doing it.”

Daly said that last year the parade was cancelled due to weather, so she will still stop and watch a parade, no matter where she is or what’s for dinner and tasty parade treats on television such as the Mamaroneck Parade, Macy’s Thanksgiving Day Parade and the Disney Parks Christmas Day Parade.

The West Cape May Christmas Parade was run from Cape May Point in a downpour last year, and this year it was rained on again.

“A lot of people just enjoy doing it. We have a lot of fun doing it.”

Daly said that last year the parade was cancelled due to weather, so she will still stop and watch a parade, no matter where she is or what’s for dinner and tasty parade treats on television such as the Mamaroneck Parade, Macy’s Thanksgiving Day Parade and the Disney Parks Christmas Day Parade.

The West Cape May Christmas Parade was run from Cape May Point in a downpour last year, and this year it was rained on again.

“A lot of people just enjoy doing it. We have a lot of fun doing it.”

Daly said that last year the parade was cancelled due to weather, so she will still stop and watch a parade, no matter where she is or what’s for dinner and tasty parade treats on television such as the Mamaroneck Parade, Macy’s Thanksgiving Day Parade and the Disney Parks Christmas Day Parade.

The West Cape May Christmas Parade was run from Cape May Point in a downpour last year, and this year it was rained on again.

“A lot of people just enjoy doing it. We have a lot of fun doing it.”

Daly said that last year the parade was cancelled due to weather, so she will still stop and watch a parade, no matter where she is or what’s for dinner and tasty parade treats on television such as the Mamaroneck Parade, Macy’s Thanksgiving Day Parade and the Disney Parks Christmas Day Parade.

The West Cape May Christmas Parade was run from Cape May Point in a downpour last year, and this year it was rained on again.

“A lot of people just enjoy doing it. We have a lot of fun doing it.”

Daly said that last year the parade was cancelled due to weather, so she will still stop and watch a parade, no matter where she is or what’s for dinner and tasty parade treats on television such as the Mamaroneck Parade, Macy’s Thanksgiving Day Parade and the Disney Parks Christmas Day Parade.

The West Cape May Christmas Parade was run from Cape May Point in a downpour last year, and this year it was rained on again.

“A lot of people just enjoy doing it. We have a lot of fun doing it.”

Daly said that last year the parade was cancelled due to weather, so she will still stop and watch a parade, no matter where she is or what’s for dinner and tasty parade treats on television such as the Mamaroneck Parade, Macy’s Thanksgiving Day Parade and the Disney Parks Christmas Day Parade.