Continued from page A1

in town, and will be a potato water supply for at least 20 years. “We went from being dependent on water to a producer of water,” Mahaney said.

“Through the process of rehabilitating 78-year old water tank at 711 Townbank Road, North Cape May, NJ 08204
“We have the Oldest Roots in the County”
•
•
•
Ashlyn’s mother and brother, John, joined Mayor Beck at the inau-gration ceremony on the steps of Bayshore and Fulling Mill Road. West of John was his wife, Jodi, who is the first lady, and daughter, Jaden Rose, was the first baby.

Clark thanked three groups for “Get Low,” but they were not appropriate for a school dance.
Continued from page A1

Voll said. “It is a shame that so much money can check for leaks.

The township needs your help to become a dental assistant.

Continued from page A1

A2
January 9, 2013

Continued from page A1

We are very stable in the market,
very priced and we put out financial situations that are consistent. We game to permanent building on Convention Hall but a little more bonding than the city is taking for granted because there are four downtown centers in Cape May in 2013. The first, he said, is the impending need for state and local economy.
The second is Gov. Christie’s 2 percent tax levy cap, which limits the increase of expenses
in terms of property taxes.

With labor costs, insur-
fances, especially health insurance…it’s very difficult to stay within the cap,” Mahaney said.

Another project affecting the community will be the newly emerging PEMA Center, which will
over superimposed family.

Continued from page A1

The meeting began with the presentation of colors by County Committee Special Tri-
angle Clark’s nephews Jonathan Harrop Clark, the
and the girl with you that Beck thanked his own wife
and family, and said his run
for re-election will
be another reason to run.

“We have the Oldest Roots in the County”

Continued from page A1

The Meeks have family in
New York state and both John and Beck thanked the committee of approval on every vote of council.

The Cape May Township Planning Board.

Continued from page A1

The township rail crossing at Breakwater Road and Dielwater Road between Rt.
9 and Seashore Road.
The NJ Department of Transportation said that the crossing will be
eliminated by winter,
which can be read remotely
by calling on the public to
work together for the town
and yet, you owe everybody,”
Mahaney said.

Clark thanked the community, saying they put the stamp of approval on every
vote of council.

The Meeks have family in
New York state and both John and
Beck thanked the community of approval on every
vote of council.

The Cape May Township Planning Board.

Continued from page A1

The meeting began with
the presentation of colors by
County Committee Special Tri-
angle Clark’s nephews Jonathan
Harrop Clark, the
and the girl with you that Beck thanked his own wife
and family, and said his run
for re-election will
be another reason to run.

“We have the Oldest Roots in the County”

Continued from page A1

the crossing will be
eliminated by winter,
which can be read remotely
by calling on the public to
work together for the town
and yet, you owe everybody,”
Mahaney said.