Hendricks also suggested that events with more than 250 attendees be subject to a supplemental fee if alcohol is served, at a rate of $100 per 250 additional attendees, with a maximum supplement of four sessions per party and an outdoor tent not to be used in a parking lot within 200 feet of any other parking lot. Applicants must apply 30 days prior to the event. She said the former Vance’s Bar site could also be used for the tent permit application. She said the homeowner or business could then be considered the host, which is required to effectively enforce the curfew, as the police can only go by what is on record with the city. She said the number of employees, the type of activities, the number of volunteers at a community event, and execution of the award are all factors that should be considered to establish the number of attendants per officer needed. The committee, said the notification form would be extremely important to the police department, informing them where and when large events are taking place.

McKenney’s proposed regulations were based on the idea that the notification would be incorporated into the police department’s new large event database. McKenney said through a proposed a year-long notification process with implementation of a new Significant Event Reporting System, Department personnel could keep track of all large events in the city.

She said the purpose of the notification process would be to inform the department of an event notificagion, not to approve any large event. McKenney Dwellings Act as well as city fire inspection, compliance
