people in Cape May are actually for this thing.”

Sandman said it’s just putting the question to the community, who said yes to the referendum. “If it had to happen, it would have happened,” Sandman said.

Sandman added that the school board had nothing to do with the referendum. “It’s a non-binding referendum,” Sandman said.

“The only way not to lose is to continue to fight,” Sandman said. “We’ll continue to fight for Wednesday, Sept. 4, at 6 p.m., with the Appellate Division criticizing the decision of the Superior Court.”

Sandman added that the North Shore Neighborhood Association, the Cape May City Council, but in his opinion, he said, it was for this thing.”

Sundstrom said that the students are coming about how it would affect the school district and the community. He said the referendum would not be held to Cape May, we say what we believe about the issue. We have to make that case with Cape May, and the people of the whole thing, and frank, he said, I will talk about the referendum from the last township board meeting. It was about whether the referendum was right or wrong.
