The Coast Guard firefighter from Atlantic Cape Fisheries marina, said about half of the amount was related to the facility. MacLeod also a vacuum truck used at Convention Hall. MacLeod and Edward Nicholas were prepping the pumps and got the Coast Guard fighters who were not when boarding the Cape May Fire Chief. Jerry Inderwies said one of his firefighters was sprayed during the blaze, sustaining a first-degree burn on the face and in the eyes after an explosion. He was reported as being in critical condition. Nicholas, a member of the Atlantic Cape Fisheries marina, said it was expected that the boating community would experience some delays. The blaze is now considered under control. Geraghty said there were no injuries to any of the firefighters. He said the fire was contained by the firefighters in 10 minutes, a quick response due to the early notification.

The Coast Guard firefighters’ quick response helped prevent damage to a facility, and the investigation will determine how the fire began.
