exception that allows some gifts to be accepted: A gift with a maximum of $200 per source per occasion may be accepted but not in cash and not to exceed $50 per source per occasion. Edwards said the only qualifying factor is it must be an item impacted by the partial shutdown. He said the Jersey Cape Military Spouses Club have offered the donations widely, which enables Coast Guard members to accept the items. "If there is a standing relationship with the spouses club, the Coast Guard may be able to provide the group with a space to set up a collection and hand them down the street from the post exchange. If Coast Guard personnel does not receive a paycheck Jan. 15, many could have a problem paying their bills and putting food on the table. Come the 15th, the word 'need' could certainly become more applicable to this situation." -Chief Warrant Officer John Edwards, U.S. Coast Guard

Lake Lily bulkhead project to be rebid, done in phases

By JACOB FICHTER
Cape May Star and Wave

CAPE MAY POINT — A project to replace a portion of the Lake Lily bulkhead was rebid after some contractors did not accept bids that were within the proper budget range. The Lake Lily bulkhead project, which is being done by the Public Works Department doing some of the work in-house, Mullock said he did not believe the project would exceed $460,000. "We're not that money anime steady. We're going to try to do within the proper range budget, and if we can get it down further, then," he said.

The borough will have better control of the design elements, in particular the landscaping, by breaking the work into three phases, Mullock said.

Mullock said the landscape would be a bigger version of what is located at Triangle Park. The plan is for a very natural, colorful, permeable surface and outflow pipe to lower the water level in the lake when a major storm is coming. The south end decreases to 6 to 8 inches, he said.

Mullock and the shallow waters combined with hot water levels in the lake result in fish kills. Lake Lily is the most important component of the Cape May Point, he said. Inflow and outflow pipes at Lake Lily to handle stormwater from the south end of the lake will be the lake, he said.

The bulkhead at the south end of the lake is in failing part. It serves an outlet pipe to lower the water level in the lake when a major storm is coming. The south end of Lake Lily is vital to the drainage of the borough’s stormwater.

By JACOB FICHTER
Cape May Star and Wave

Snow blankets the mall, silences the bell

Cape Island saw its first snowfall of the year Jan. 12-13, when an average of 3 inches fell across the lower Cape, including in Cape May, where Gail Van Scoyk captured this scene.

Capes stars and waves

Sachars to share photos

Donations help fill food pantry amid government shutdown

By JACOB FICHTER
Cape May Star and Wave

CAPE MAY — Coast Guard personnel at Training Center Cape May (TRACEN) were expecting they would not receive a paycheck Jan. 15 due to the federal partial government shutdown. That may change, according to Chief Warrant Officer John Edwards. "Out of all of those civilians employees that we have, all but 24 have been furloughed," he said. "So there's obviously some impact there with being able to pay at full salary, and obviously, spend if you will," he said.

Edwards said facilitating engineering and the ability to respond to emergency situations, are still intact. "We have TRACEN is continuing to operate." He said TRACEN recruits in the responsible nature that it is required to train personnel. Those personnel that are authorized to receive a paycheck Jan. 15, "That was a one-time deal and the next paycheck, Jan. 15, is not guaranteed," Edwards said. "That was subject to legal considerations."

Robert Manfre, the Jersey Cape Military Spouses Club has offered the donations. He said the club regularly offers materials and information to recruits’ spouses on graduation day.

"The Coast Guard is not accepting those donations but the spouses’ association is," Edwards said.

"The federal 20/50 rule is an exception that allows some gifts to be accepted: A gift with a maximum of $200 per source per occasion may be accepted but not in cash and not to exceed $50 per source per occasion. Edwards said the only qualifying factor is it must be an item impacted by the partial shutdown. He said the Jersey Cape Military Spouses Club have offered the donations widely, which enables Coast Guard members to accept the items. "If there is a standing relationship with the spouses’ club, the Coast Guard may be able to provide the group with a space to set up a collection and hand them down the street from the post exchange.

If Coast Guard personnel does not receive a paycheck Jan. 15, many could have a problem paying their bills and putting food on the table. Come the 15th, the word ‘need’ could certainly become more applicable to this situation." -Chief Warrant Officer John Edwards, U.S. Coast Guard

Lake Lily bulkhead project to be rebid, done in phases

By JACOB FICHTER
Cape May Star and Wave

CAPE MAY POINT — Bids received for a project at Lake Lily along with concrete work and landscaping, exceeded the projected budget based on a grant received for $425,000. On Jan. 15, Commissioner Robert Mullock said bids ranged from $800,000 to $1.2 million. He said the bidding process would be broken into three pieces, with the Public Works Department doing some of the work in-house, Mullock said. "We're not that money anime steady. We're going to try to do within the proper range budget, and if we can get it down further, then," he said.

The borough will have better control of the design elements, in particular the landscaping, by breaking the work into three phases, Mullock said.

Mullock said the landscaping would be a bigger version of what is located at Triangle Park. The plan is for a very natural, colorful, permeable surface and outflow pipe to lower the water level in the lake when a major storm is coming. The south end decreases to 6 to 8 inches, he said.

Mullock and the shallow water levels combined with hot water heats that portion of the lake result in fish kills. Lake Lily is the most important component of the Cape May Point, he said. Inflow and outflow pipes at Lake Lily to handle stormwater from the south end of the lake will be the lake, he said.

The bulkhead at the south end of the lake is in failing part. It serves an outlet pipe to lower the water level in the lake when a major storm is coming. The south end of Lake Lily is vital to the drainage of the borough’s stormwater.

By JACOB FICHTER
Cape May Star and Wave

Snow blankets the mall, silences the bell

Cape Island saw its first snowfall of the year Jan. 12-13, when an average of 3 inches fell across the lower Cape, including in Cape May, where Gail Van Scoyk captured this scene.

"That was a one-time deal and the next paycheck, Jan. 15, is not guaranteed," Edwards said. "That was subject to legal considerations."

Robert Manfre, the Jersey Cape Military Spouses Club has offered the donations. He said the club regularly offers materials and information to recruits’ spouses on graduation day.

"The Coast Guard is not accepting those donations but the spouses’ association is," Edwards said.

"The federal 20/50 rule is an exception that allows some gifts to be accepted: A gift with a maximum of $200 per source per occasion may be accepted but not in cash and not to exceed $50 per source per occasion. Edwards said the only qualifying factor is it must be an item impacted by the partial shutdown. He said the Jersey Cape Military Spouses Club have offered the donations widely, which enables Coast Guard members to accept the items. "If there is a standing relationship with the spouses’ club, the Coast Guard may be able to provide the group with a space to set up a collection and hand them down the street from the post exchange.

If Coast Guard personnel does not receive a paycheck Jan. 15, many could have a problem paying their bills and putting food on the table. Come the 15th, the word ‘need’ could certainly become more applicable to this situation." -Chief Warrant Officer John Edwards, U.S. Coast Guard

Lake Lily bulkhead project to be rebid, done in phases

By JACOB FICHTER
Cape May Star and Wave

CAPE MAY POINT — Bids received for a project at Lake Lily along with concrete work and landscaping, exceeded the projected budget based on a grant received for $425,000. On Jan. 15, Commissioner Robert Mullock said bids ranged from $800,000 to $1.2 million. He said the bidding process would be broken into three pieces, with the Public Works Department doing some of the work in-house, Mullock said. "We're not that money anime steady. We're going to try to do within the proper range budget, and if we can get it down further, then," he said.

The borough will have better control of the design elements, in particular the landscaping, by breaking the work into three phases, Mullock said.

Mullock said the landscaping would be a bigger version of what is located at Triangle Park. The plan is for a very natural, colorful, permeable surface and outflow pipe to lower the water level in the lake when a major storm is coming. The south end decreases to 6 to 8 inches, he said.

Mullock and the shallow water levels combined with hot water heats that portion of the lake result in fish kills. Lake Lily is the most important component of the Cape May Point, he said. Inflow and outflow pipes at Lake Lily to handle stormwater from the south end of the lake will be the lake, he said.

The bulkhead at the south end of the lake is in failing part. It serves an outlet pipe to lower the water level in the lake when a major storm is coming. The south end of Lake Lily is vital to the drainage of the borough’s stormwater.