Cape May plans to raise fees for 2024 beach tags
The costs would increase 25 percent to 33 percent

By JACk FICHTER
Cape May Star and Wave

WEST CAPE MAY — Three candidates seek two seats in West Cape May Council.

The November 7 election will be the last before the municipality begins redistricting. The Star and Wave contacted each candidate to learn more about their platform.

Carlo Antonicello, 55, is running for the first time. He is a former police officer who served for 34 years in the city of Atlantic City.

Antonicello is a local resident who was not interested in politics until he moved to West Cape May. He won a city council seat in 2018 and has been serving on the council ever since.

Antonicello said the most important issues facing the municipality are infrastructure improvements, public safety, and crime.

Antonicello also noted that the municipality needs to continue to reduce its debt.

He said he would like to see the municipality adopt a more transparent approach to decision-making.

By JACk FICHTER
Cape May Star and Wave

Area's first cannabis shop opens in West Cape May

Cape May Star and Wave

WEST CAPE MAY — The town’s first cannabis dispensary, MTRAC, opened its doors in August.

The shop offers a variety of products, including flowers, concentrates, and edibles.

By JACk FICHTER
Cape May Star and Wave

Lower volleyball wins its first playoff game

By CRAIG D. SCHENCK
Cape May Star and Wave

BEESLEYS POINT — It was another beautiful day for an impromptu Thursday volleyball match.

Three for three: Smokestack goes down just like drawn up

By CRAIG D. SCHENCK
Cape May Star and Wave