MURPHY: State COVID restrictions to ease May 19

By DAVID NAHAN
Cape May Star and Wave

ERMA — Lower Cape May Regional School Districts voted for the district’s 2022-23 budget that will raise taxes in Cape May and increase fees in Lower Township and West Cape May.

The two district budgets are $38 million, up 1.5 percent from the current year, because for $2 million more to be raised for the current budget. The administration to Business Administrator Mark Mallett.

As a regional school distric, the state calculates the share a municipality is to contribute to the fundi of the district based on property value and pupil enrollment.

Lower Cape May’s percent, 43.9 percent of the school district is increasing from 35 64 percent to 37.65 percent for 2021-22. Lower Township’s share is declining from 61.7 percent to 60.1 percent for 2021-22.

Cape May’s share is decreasing from 5.7 percent to 4.9 percent. This means the state would have to pay $666,000 more for the county’s share.

The net result for Lower Township is a $23 million in additional taxes, according to Business Administrator Mark Mallett.

As a regional school district, the state calculates the share a municipality is to contribute to the funding of the district based on property value and pupil enrollment.

Lower Township and West Cape May’s share will increase by 1.5 percent because for $2 million more to be raised for the current budget. This means the state would have to pay $666,000 more for the county’s share.

The net result for Lower Township is a $23 million in additional taxes, according to Business Administrator Mark Mallett.

As a regional school district, the state calculates the share a municipality is to contribute to the funding of the district based on property value and pupil enrollment.

Cape May’s percent, 43.9 percent of the school district is increasing from 35.64 percent to 37.65 percent for 2021-22. Lower Township’s share is declining from 61.7 percent to 60.1 percent for 2021-22.

Cape May’s share is decreasing from 5.7 percent to 4.9 percent. This means the state would have to pay $666,000 more for the county’s share.

The net result for Lower Township is a $23 million in additional taxes, according to Business Administrator Mark Mallett.

As a regional school district, the state calculates the share a municipality is to contribute to the funding of the district based on property value and pupil enrollment.

Cape May’s percent, 43.9 percent of the school district is increasing from 35.64 percent to 37.65 percent for 2021-22. Lower Township’s share is declining from 61.7 percent to 60.1 percent for 2021-22.

Cape May’s share is decreasing from 5.7 percent to 4.9 percent. This means the state would have to pay $666,000 more for the county’s share.

The net result for Lower Township is a $23 million in additional taxes, according to Business Administrator Mark Mallett.

As a regional school district, the state calculates the share a municipality is to contribute to the funding of the district based on property value and pupil enrollment.

Cape May’s percent, 43.9 percent of the school district is increasing from 35.64 percent to 37.65 percent for 2021-22. Lower Township’s share is declining from 61.7 percent to 60.1 percent for 2021-22.

Cape May’s share is decreasing from 5.7 percent to 4.9 percent. This means the state would have to pay $666,000 more for the county’s share.

The net result for Lower Township is a $23 million in additional taxes, according to Business Administrator Mark Mallett.

As a regional school district, the state calculates the share a municipality is to contribute to the funding of the district based on property value and pupil enrollment.

Cape May’s percent, 43.9 percent of the school district is increasing from 35.64 percent to 37.65 percent for 2021-22. Lower Township’s share is declining from 61.7 percent to 60.1 percent for 2021-22.

Cape May’s share is decreasing from 5.7 percent to 4.9 percent. This means the state would have to pay $666,000 more for the county’s share.

The net result for Lower Township is a $23 million in additional taxes, according to Business Administrator Mark Mallett.

As a regional school district, the state calculates the share a municipality is to contribute to the funding of the district based on property value and pupil enrollment.

Cape May’s percent, 43.9 percent of the school district is increasing from 35.64 percent to 37.65 percent for 2021-22. Lower Township’s share is declining from 61.7 percent to 60.1 percent for 2021-22.

Cape May’s share is decreasing from 5.7 percent to 4.9 percent. This means the state would have to pay $666,000 more for the county’s share.

The net result for Lower Township is a $23 million in additional taxes, according to Business Administrator Mark Mallett.

As a regional school district, the state calculates the share a municipality is to contribute to the funding of the district based on property value and pupil enrollment.

Cape May’s percent, 43.9 percent of the school district is increasing from 35.64 percent to 37.65 percent for 2021-22. Lower Township’s share is declining from 61.7 percent to 60.1 percent for 2021-22.

Cape May’s share is decreasing from 5.7 percent to 4.9 percent. This means the state would have to pay $666,000 more for the county’s share.

The net result for Lower Township is a $23 million in additional taxes, according to Business Administrator Mark Mallett.

As a regional school district, the state calculates the share a municipality is to contribute to the funding of the district based on property value and pupil enrollment.

Cape May’s percent, 43.9 percent of the school district is increasing from 35.64 percent to 37.65 percent for 2021-22. Lower Township’s share is declining from 61.7 percent to 60.1 percent for 2021-22.

Cape May’s share is decreasing from 5.7 percent to 4.9 percent. This means the state would have to pay $666,000 more for the county’s share.

The net result for Lower Township is a $23 million in additional taxes, according to Business Administrator Mark Mallett.

As a regional school district, the state calculates the share a municipality is to contribute to the funding of the district based on property value and pupil enrollment.