HPC offers compromise on cedar shingles

Page A2

House of the week

167th YEAR NO. 30

CAPE MAY, N.J.

Serving America's National Historic Landmark City

WEDNESDAY, JULY 28, 2021 $1.00

CMFD losing workers due to low wages

Rookies starting at $12.36/hour, about 30% less than other towns

By JACK FICHTER Cape May Star and Wave

CAPE MAY — The city's fire department is losing personnel to departments in other towns that offer higher salaries. The city pays $36,000 per year to new hires.

Lt. Edward Zebrowski said salaries were slashed during contract negotiations about 12 years ago and have stayed low under the last contract, signed in 2015. Both contracts were done under new interest arbitration rules.

Since the most recent contract, Cape May's Fire Department has seen a turnover of employees of about 20 percent, Zebrowski said.

"We've seen four firefighters leave the department since this last contract and we are expressing to the city that we are very concerned that if we continue this way, using our department as a steppingstone, that it will be very dangerous for not only ourselves but for the people of Cape May," he

The contract between the city and International Association of Fire Fighters (IAFF) Local 3495 expired in December 2020. Negotiations have been under way since the end of February without much progress, Zebrowski said.

Firefighter/EMT Tim Durstewitz, vice president of IAFF Local 3495, said the department has an annual starting salary of $36,000 which equates to a wage of $12.36 per hour for new hires, working 2,912 hours per year.

He said the salaries from "top to bottom" are about 30 percent lower than other fire departments such as Wildwood, North

By JACK FICHTER

Cape May Star and Wave

CAPE MAY — The city's revenue has been on the upswing since May, even

During a City Council meeting July 20, Chief Financial Officer Neil Young said revenue in May was healthy for the current fund in water/sewer util-exceeding 2019 figures.

Cape May to rent space at West Cape May fire station during demolition, construction. Page A5

Wildwood, Ocean City, Ventnor and Brigantine.

Zebrowski said Cape May firefighters work more hours than other departments and that shortstaffing has forced a lot of overtime.

"When you lose somebody, when they transfer to a different department or resign, it takes three to four months minimum before you can replace that person if they have already had all their training," Zebrowski said. "It can take upward to six months or a year before you have somebody that's fully qualified to replace that person."

When a firefighter leaves, the department is short-staffed and must pay overtime wages, he said.

Zebrowski salu in the past, firefighters had to live in Cape May to be placed on the eligibility list. Currently no one is eligible that lives in Cape May, he said.

Using a county list of eligible perspective employees, many will decline an interview with Cape May due to the salaries and hours, he said.

"You start out at $12.36 an hour and it takes 18 years to get to the top step of our salary guide and our top step is still 25 to 30

See CMFD, Page A3

adding that the city received a shuttered venue

grant of $176,000 for Con-

slight decrease of expenses for the police department

due to the retirements of the chief and a sergeant

Young said there was a vention Hall.

David Nahan CAPE MAY STAR AND WAVE

CMBP women take second at O.C. invitational

Above, Cape May Beach Patrol lifeguard Kennedy Campbell runs out of the surf to win the paddleboard event during the Ocean City Beach Patrol Women's Lifeguard Invitational July 22 at 34th Street. Campbell and CMBP teammates finished second overall at the event. At right, Campbell leads the field to the middle marker in the race. See story and photos, page A8.

Consultant saves city $3M. to replace well

By JACK FICHTER Cape May Star and Wave

CAPE MAY — The city dodged a $3 million bullet when a consultant was able to restore the city's primary water supply well rather than replacing it.

The city hired Dennis Gaughan, owner of Clearwater Solutions, as a consultant after two wells failed.

"Dennis has kind of been like the town hero the past few weeks," Mayor Zack Mullock said during a City Council meeting July 20.

Gaughan said Well 6,

Cape May's primary well, flags" right away on the facturer regarding the warwas pumping up sand. He said Well 6 was developed by another firm, which was onsite when he arrived.

"If we did not correct this sand problem right here, a new well would have been bid at $3 million or more," Gaughan said. "We went back to square one."

He said the pump was pulled out and swabbed, a test pump installed and the well surged.

Gaughan said if a pump normally pumps 900 gallons per minute, it is surged to 1,200 gallons per minute. He said he found two "red original installation of the pump.

"The company actually agreed to everything that we suggested," Gaughan A redevelopment rig was brought in to clean sand out of the gravel bed of the well, he said. "This well came back better than brand new when it was first re-drilled 20 years ago," Gaughan said.

The well will be operating this week, he said.

Mullock said the city debated with the engineer, ranty for 18 months. He said the well was offline for nearly a year.

Gaughan said the well should operate properly for 10 to 15 years. He said the other firm wanted to replace all the piping, which was 20 years old, but he advised them to leave it alone. The well is 830 feet deep, according to Gaughan.

"I'm not the hero, I'm just giving you the opinion of what you should be doing,' he said.

Mullock said Well 8 was also offline for a period of the installer and the manugrams paused during the first three months of the year due to the COVID DEP puts Lower on notice over catch basins pandemic, Young said,

By JACK FICHTER Cape May Star and Wave

DIAMOND BEACH — Lower Township is in violation of state Department of Environmental Protection (DEP) regulations for catch basins full of sand on Richmond Avenue, which is causing street flooding.

During a Township

Council meeting July 19, Richmond Avenue resi-

plained about continuing flooding of the street due to catch basins (storm sewers) full of sand. She acknowledged she was aware a meeting with the engineering firm of De-Blasio and Associates and Lower Township Public Works was scheduled for the following day.

"I had mosquito control come out and the catch basins are basically full to this or it's going to cost a dent Susan Zumar com- the top," she said. "They lot of money," Zumar said. treated them for larvae right now and I understand they were spraying all around the wetlands this week. The DEP gave the township 30 days to address the problem or face fines of as much as $50,000 for each violation.

"I would hope that Lower Township is proactive in doing something about

Richmond Avenue resident Jim Pomponi said he has owned his property for 22 years and the flooding has been a constant issue. He said the township receives significant

tax dollars from the residents of Diamond Beach. He said sand frequently blows down the street. "You can go and dip

See DEP, Page A4

ity and the beach utility. with the positions filled by "lower-costing staff." He said the tourism utility lags until room tax rev-Fire department expensenue is inserted later in es are slightly reduced based on a retirement

Cape May revenue tops

banner year of 2019, '20

the season. Convention Hall was closed and recreation pro-

See Revenue, Page A3

When You Need The Best Care For Your Emergency.

24/7 EMERGENCY CARE FOR YOUR FAMILY JUST MINUTES AWAY!

- Sensory-friendly pediatric program
- and illnesses Less than 5 miles from Ocean City
- S Caring, skilled and compassionate nurses
- 💰 Fast track triage system for minor injuries 🚿 Separate child-friendly emergency treatment & inpatient unit staffed 24/7 by pediatric specialists
 - Staffed 24/7 by board certified Bayfront Emergency Physicians

ShoreMedicalCenter.org 100 Medical Center Way, Somers Point, NJ