By JACK FICHER
Cape May Star and Wave

Cape May — The county is planning a ground-up development project that will create a new transportation hub on the city’s waterfront.

Cape May County Council passed a resolution Aug. 6 that would allow the county to purchase a site near the Port of Cape May for the new hub.

Alderman Jimmy George and Councilman Frank Green were two of the five who voted “yes” to the resolution. Councilman Bill Trott and Councilman John Fennerty voted against it.

The county will purchase the old Port of Cape May property from the federal government for an amount not to exceed $5.5 million. The property is located on the west side of the Delaware River, just north of the Delaware Memorial Bridge.

The resolution stated that the county is seeking a site for a new transportation hub that would include a ferry, bus terminal, and possibly a train station.

The project would be a multi-modal transportation hub that would help connect Cape May County to other parts of the state and the region.

The resolution also stated that the county expects to notify Cape May County residents and organizations about the project in the near future.

The resolution was introduced at the county’s regular meeting on Aug. 6 and was approved unanimously. The county will now begin the process of purchasing the property and developing the new hub.

By JOHN MURPHY
Cape May Star and Wave

Cape May — The county is planning a ground-up development project that will create a new transportation hub on the city’s waterfront.

Cape May County Council passed a resolution Aug. 6 that would allow the county to purchase a site near the Port of Cape May for the new hub.

Alderman Jimmy George and Councilman Frank Green were two of the five who voted “yes” to the resolution. Councilman Bill Trott and Councilman John Fennerty voted against it.

The county will purchase the old Port of Cape May property from the federal government for an amount not to exceed $5.5 million. The property is located on the west side of the Delaware River, just north of the Delaware Memorial Bridge.

The resolution stated that the county is seeking a site for a new transportation hub that would include a ferry, bus terminal, and possibly a train station.

The project would be a multi-modal transportation hub that would help connect Cape May County to other parts of the state and the region.

The resolution also stated that the county expects to notify Cape May County residents and organizations about the project in the near future.

The resolution was introduced at the county’s regular meeting on Aug. 6 and was approved unanimously. The county will now begin the process of purchasing the property and developing the new hub.

By JOHN MURPHY
Cape May Star and Wave

Cape May — The county is planning a ground-up development project that will create a new transportation hub on the city’s waterfront.

Cape May County Council passed a resolution Aug. 6 that would allow the county to purchase a site near the Port of Cape May for the new hub.

Alderman Jimmy George and Councilman Frank Green were two of the five who voted “yes” to the resolution. Councilman Bill Trott and Councilman John Fennerty voted against it.

The county will purchase the old Port of Cape May property from the federal government for an amount not to exceed $5.5 million. The property is located on the west side of the Delaware River, just north of the Delaware Memorial Bridge.

The resolution stated that the county is seeking a site for a new transportation hub that would include a ferry, bus terminal, and possibly a train station.

The project would be a multi-modal transportation hub that would help connect Cape May County to other parts of the state and the region.

The resolution also stated that the county expects to notify Cape May County residents and organizations about the project in the near future.

The resolution was introduced at the county’s regular meeting on Aug. 6 and was approved unanimously. The county will now begin the process of purchasing the property and developing the new hub.

By JOHN MURPHY
Cape May Star and Wave

Cape May — The county is planning a ground-up development project that will create a new transportation hub on the city’s waterfront.

Cape May County Council passed a resolution Aug. 6 that would allow the county to purchase a site near the Port of Cape May for the new hub.

Alderman Jimmy George and Councilman Frank Green were two of the five who voted “yes” to the resolution. Councilman Bill Trott and Councilman John Fennerty voted against it.

The county will purchase the old Port of Cape May property from the federal government for an amount not to exceed $5.5 million. The property is located on the west side of the Delaware River, just north of the Delaware Memorial Bridge.

The resolution stated that the county is seeking a site for a new transportation hub that would include a ferry, bus terminal, and possibly a train station.

The project would be a multi-modal transportation hub that would help connect Cape May County to other parts of the state and the region.

The resolution also stated that the county expects to notify Cape May County residents and organizations about the project in the near future.

The resolution was introduced at the county’s regular meeting on Aug. 6 and was approved unanimously. The county will now begin the process of purchasing the property and developing the new hub.

By JOHN MURPHY
Cape May Star and Wave

Cape May — The county is planning a ground-up development project that will create a new transportation hub on the city’s waterfront.

Cape May County Council passed a resolution Aug. 6 that would allow the county to purchase a site near the Port of Cape May for the new hub.

Alderman Jimmy George and Councilman Frank Green were two of the five who voted “yes” to the resolution. Councilman Bill Trott and Councilman John Fennerty voted against it.

The county will purchase the old Port of Cape May property from the federal government for an amount not to exceed $5.5 million. The property is located on the west side of the Delaware River, just north of the Delaware Memorial Bridge.

The resolution stated that the county is seeking a site for a new transportation hub that would include a ferry, bus terminal, and possibly a train station.

The project would be a multi-modal transportation hub that would help connect Cape May County to other parts of the state and the region.

The resolution also stated that the county expects to notify Cape May County residents and organizations about the project in the near future.

The resolution was introduced at the county’s regular meeting on Aug. 6 and was approved unanimously. The county will now begin the process of purchasing the property and developing the new hub.