Cape May County has an organized effort to control mosquitoes in the summer because of Aedes sollicitans (the Eastern saltmarsh mosquito), an entomologist, according to Rossner said that a state commission devoted to mosquito control was created and was broken up into counties aided by the state not long afterward. The county has been leading the way for the world. There was never an organized effort to control mosquitoes like this and we had a lot to learn and there was a lot at stake.

There are 45 different species of mosquitoes in Cape May County. This includes the Asian tiger mosquito, which has a flight range of about 500 feet from where they’re born, according to Rossner. "We have to go after the source of the mosquito, which, conservatively, can fly 20 miles in a day," he said.

"In a place like Cape May Point, like this and we had a lot to learn and there was a lot at stake."
