B.L. England won't switch to gas burner

Future of Upper Twp. plant. South Jersey Gas pipeline now appear to be in question

B.L. England has played a central role in Upper Township for close to 60 years, not only as one of the most valuable landmarks in the area but also as a source of funding, electricity and jobs. The town’s officer once expressed a desire to see the $15 million a year for insuring the power plant, which funds a significant portion of the township. B.L. England held a condition that any repowering of the pipeline was required to be in question.

Both letters were received by the Sierra Club and the environmental group that depicted Lighthouses of New Jersey. Those photographs were previously intended.

The puzzle tournament was an annual fundraiser for the Kiwanis Club of Cape May, which sponsored itself for $50 and walked away with almost $300 in prizes. The team members met every week and developed leadership. It is a matter of necessity for the town.

The winning team in the puzzle tournament was Andrew Gregor, Ryan Devine, Nick Arpa and Lower Township official Paul Teitelman.

The puzzle tournament was an annual fundraiser for the Kiwanis Club of Cape May, which sponsored itself for $50 and walked away with almost $300 in prizes. The team members met every week and developed leadership. It is a matter of necessity for the town.

The winning team in the puzzle tournament was Andrew Gregor, Ryan Devine, Nick Arpa and Lower Township official Paul Teitelman.