West Cape May considers legal cannabis regulations

The Cape May Star and Wave

By JACK FICTER
Cape May Star and Wave

Cape May — City Council plans to raise cost of beach tags by $5 to $10 from Dec. 1 to March 31

By Jack Fichter

Cape May — City Council plans to raise cost of beach tags by $5 to $10 from Dec. 1 to March 31, starting April 1 and raising the price of a season-long pass from $25 to $30.

City Councilman Chris Bezaitz said the increase is needed to fund improvements to the town’s public beaches.

“We have been dealing with the effects of town budget cutbacks for many years and this year we have a really good chance to improve our public beaches,” Bezaitz said.

Bezaitz said the council will be considering several improvements, including repainting and upgrading existing beach concession stands, signage and trash bins.

Bezaitz said the council will also be considering other proposals for increasing the costs of other municipal services, such as waste removal and water and sewer services.

Cape May plans to raise cost of beach tags

CAPE MAY — City Council plans to raise cost of beach tags by $5 to $10 from Dec. 1 to March 31, starting April 1 and raising the price of a season-long pass from $25 to $30.

City Councilman Chris Bezaitz said the increase is needed to fund improvements to the town’s public beaches.

“We have been dealing with the effects of town budget cutbacks for many years and this year we have a really good chance to improve our public beaches,” Bezaitz said.

Bezaitz said the council will be considering several improvements, including repainting and upgrading existing beach concession stands, signage and trash bins.

Bezaitz said the council will also be considering other proposals for increasing the costs of other municipal services, such as waste removal and water and sewer services.

Cape May plans to raise cost of beach tags

Cape May plans to raise cost of beach tags by $5 to $10 from Dec. 1 to March 31, starting April 1 and raising the price of a season-long pass from $25 to $30. City Councilman Chris Bezaitz said the increase is needed to fund improvements to the town’s public beaches.

“We have been dealing with the effects of town budget cutbacks for many years and this year we have a really good chance to improve our public beaches,” Bezaitz said.

Bezaitz said the council will be considering several improvements, including repainting and upgrading existing beach concession stands, signage and trash bins.

Bezaitz said the council will also be considering other proposals for increasing the costs of other municipal services, such as waste removal and water and sewer services.

Cape May plans to raise cost of beach tags

Cape May plans to raise cost of beach tags by $5 to $10 from Dec. 1 to March 31, starting April 1 and raising the price of a season-long pass from $25 to $30.

City Councilman Chris Bezaitz said the increase is needed to fund improvements to the town’s public beaches.

“We have been dealing with the effects of town budget cutbacks for many years and this year we have a really good chance to improve our public beaches,” Bezaitz said.

Bezaitz said the council will be considering several improvements, including repainting and upgrading existing beach concession stands, signage and trash bins.

Bezaitz said the council will also be considering other proposals for increasing the costs of other municipal services, such as waste removal and water and sewer services.

Cape May plans to raise cost of beach tags

Cape May plans to raise cost of beach tags by $5 to $10 from Dec. 1 to March 31, starting April 1 and raising the price of a season-long pass from $25 to $30.

City Councilman Chris Bezaitz said the increase is needed to fund improvements to the town’s public beaches.

“We have been dealing with the effects of town budget cutbacks for many years and this year we have a really good chance to improve our public beaches,” Bezaitz said.

Bezaitz said the council will be considering several improvements, including repainting and upgrading existing beach concession stands, signage and trash bins.

Bezaitz said the council will also be considering other proposals for increasing the costs of other municipal services, such as waste removal and water and sewer services.

Cape May plans to raise cost of beach tags

Cape May plans to raise cost of beach tags by $5 to $10 from Dec. 1 to March 31, starting April 1 and raising the price of a season-long pass from $25 to $30.

City Councilman Chris Bezaitz said the increase is needed to fund improvements to the town’s public beaches.

“We have been dealing with the effects of town budget cutbacks for many years and this year we have a really good chance to improve our public beaches,” Bezaitz said.

Bezaitz said the council will be considering several improvements, including repainting and upgrading existing beach concession stands, signage and trash bins.

Bezaitz said the council will also be considering other proposals for increasing the costs of other municipal services, such as waste removal and water and sewer services.

Cape May plans to raise cost of beach tags

Cape May plans to raise cost of beach tags by $5 to $10 from Dec. 1 to March 31, starting April 1 and raising the price of a season-long pass from $25 to $30. City Councilman Chris Bezaitz said the increase is needed to fund improvements to the town’s public beaches.

“We have been dealing with the effects of town budget cutbacks for many years and this year we have a really good chance to improve our public beaches,” Bezaitz said.

Bezaitz said the council will be considering several improvements, including repainting and upgrading existing beach concession stands, signage and trash bins.

Bezaitz said the council will also be considering other proposals for increasing the costs of other municipal services, such as waste removal and water and sewer services.

Cape May plans to raise cost of beach tags

Cape May plans to raise cost of beach tags by $5 to $10 from Dec. 1 to March 31, starting April 1 and raising the price of a season-long pass from $25 to $30.

City Councilman Chris Bezaitz said the increase is needed to fund improvements to the town’s public beaches.

“We have been dealing with the effects of town budget cutbacks for many years and this year we have a really good chance to improve our public beaches,” Bezaitz said.

Bezaitz said the council will be considering several improvements, including repainting and upgrading existing beach concession stands, signage and trash bins.

Bezaitz said the council will also be considering other proposals for increasing the costs of other municipal services, such as waste removal and water and sewer services.

Cape May plans to raise cost of beach tags

Cape May plans to raise cost of beach tags by $5 to $10 from Dec. 1 to March 31, starting April 1 and raising the price of a season-long pass from $25 to $30.

City Councilman Chris Bezaitz said the increase is needed to fund improvements to the town’s public beaches.

“We have been dealing with the effects of town budget cutbacks for many years and this year we have a really good chance to improve our public beaches,” Bezaitz said.

Bezaitz said the council will be considering several improvements, including repainting and upgrading existing beach concession stands, signage and trash bins.

Bezaitz said the council will also be considering other proposals for increasing the costs of other municipal services, such as waste removal and water and sewer services.

Cape May plans to raise cost of beach tags

Cape May plans to raise cost of beach tags by $5 to $10 from Dec. 1 to March 31, starting April 1 and raising the price of a season-long pass from $25 to $30.

City Councilman Chris Bezaitz said the increase is needed to fund improvements to the town’s public beaches.

“We have been dealing with the effects of town budget cutbacks for many years and this year we have a really good chance to improve our public beaches,” Bezaitz said.

Bezaitz said the council will be considering several improvements, including repainting and upgrading existing beach concession stands, signage and trash bins.

Bezaitz said the council will also be considering other proposals for increasing the costs of other municipal services, such as waste removal and water and sewer services.

Cape May plans to raise cost of beach tags

Cape May plans to raise cost of beach tags by $5 to $10 from Dec. 1 to March 31, starting April 1 and raising the price of a season-long pass from $25 to $30.

City Councilman Chris Bezaitz said the increase is needed to fund improvements to the town’s public beaches.

“We have been dealing with the effects of town budget cutbacks for many years and this year we have a really good chance to improve our public beaches,” Bezaitz said.

Bezaitz said the council will be considering several improvements, including repainting and upgrading existing beach concession stands, signage and trash bins.

Bezaitz said the council will also be considering other proposals for increasing the costs of other municipal services, such as waste removal and water and sewer services.

Cape May plans to raise cost of beach tags

Cape May plans to raise cost of beach tags by $5 to $10 from Dec. 1 to March 31, starting April 1 and raising the price of a season-long pass from $25 to $30.

City Councilman Chris Bezaitz said the increase is needed to fund improvements to the town’s public beaches.

“We have been dealing with the effects of town budget cutbacks for many years and this year we have a really good chance to improve our public beaches,” Bezaitz said.

Bezaitz said the council will be considering several improvements, including repainting and upgrading existing beach concession stands, signage and trash bins.

Bezaitz said the council will also be considering other proposals for increasing the costs of other municipal services, such as waste removal and water and sewer services.