Several dollars of debris are restored to the building. He said 2022 was a year for the city faced many unpaid employee contracts, some of which had expired for years with eight new contracts negotiated. After decades of debate and countless attempts to start the project, construction of a new state of the art firehouse is underway, well within budget and collected and paid for by the residents of Cape May. Let’s get it done.

Footings for the new firehouse have been poured by a Cape May contractor. Mullock said all the contracts, projects, capital expenditures that were undertaken in 2021, were done without a tax increase. He said council planned for a zero-tax increase in 2022 but with projects moving forward and as well as “reasonable and well-deserved salary increases for our employees.”

“We do this with good, professional, and fairly responsible planning,” Mullock said.

Mullock said the city is preparing for a major expansion of Star and Wave, P.O. Box 2427, Cape May, N.J. 08204.
