Waterhouse said the city is looking to take seven to eight months to begin the fourth in a series of projects that will take about two years to complete. The city will receive a record of right-of-way from the state Department of Environmental Protection by the end of the first quarter of 2024, he said.

Answering a question from a member of the public asking if the city will be taking over ownership of the parcel in the near future, Orlando said the city would begin construction in the fall of 2024, and work would begin in the first quarter of 2025.

The city council approved a motion to rezone 9 acres of land in the Sewell area to a residential area. The rezoning will allow for the construction of 93 one-family homes.

County averaging

County Mayor James E. ‘Jimmy’ Packer said the Cape May County Health Department stopped reporting COVID-19 cases last week, according to the Cape May Courthouse Library.

“This is the 10th straight week that we have not had any COVID-19 cases in the county,” he said.

Packer also said that the county has not reported any deaths due to COVID-19 for the past 13 weeks.

In other business, Orlando said that the city will be discussing the possibility of creating a new park in the area.

The city council approved a motion to develop a new park in the area, which will be called Kiwanis Park.

The park will be located on a parcel of land that the city purchased from the DEP.

The park will be used for recreational purposes and will be available for use by the public.
