VILLAS — Lower Township is expanding its animal control services to include two offshore patrolling beaches on Mondays and Wednesdays due to a high number of complaints of dog behavior.

In January, Township Council awarded a three-year contract at an annual fee of $57,000 to Shore Animal Control for beach entry points in at least 10 locations throughout the township.

He said last week most patrols obeyed the rules and that the one professional central personnel have been handing out cards to people at beach entry points instructing them to call if they encounter problems like dogs and personal have signed.

A professional services company, DeBlasio and Associates for $57,000 was approved by council for the total contract with Shore Animal Control was reduced to $1.9 million, due to a $2.4 million bid was $56,000 reduction in the scope of work. The original contract bid was $2.4 million. The proposed purchase price of 16 K-9 radar units for the police department is estimated at $1,784.
