Wineries, breweries future of tourism

By JACK FICTHER
Cape May Star and Wave

CAPE MAY COURT HOUSE — County tourism figures for 2014 recorded another banner year for the county’s development board.

The board ruled events such as weddings and funerals are permitted uses. Wineries will be limited to serving alcoholic beverages and art exhibits.

The case calls into question what should constitute a special occasion event conducted for the Right-to-Farm Act. At issue was how special occasions events are to be conducted on preserved farmland at wineries.

The Mid-Atlantic Center for the Arts and Humanities hosted an Armed Forces Day event May 16 at Fire Control Tower 23 on Sunset Boulevard in Lower Township. The event was attended by veterans, some from World War II and digerians.

Lower marks Armed Forces Day

Cape May historian and author Robert Heilfey, of the Mid-Atlantic Center for the Arts and Humanities, addresses the crowd during the Armed Forces Day celebration in Lower Township. At right, state Sen. Jeff Van Drew delivers a speech.

A.C. sore spot in otherwise rosy economic outlook

By KRISTEN KELLHER
Cape May Star and Wave

ATLANTIC CITY — Atlantic City may have a difficult head of steam from other southern New Jersey towns.

Wineries may have a difficult head of steam from other southern New Jersey towns. Wineries will be limited to serving alcoholic beverages and art exhibits.

The case calls into question what should constitute a special occasion event conducted for the Right-to-Farm Act. At issue was how special occasions events are to be conducted on preserved farmland at wineries.

The Mid-Atlantic Center for the Arts and Humanities hosted an Armed Forces Day event May 16 at Fire Control Tower 23 on Sunset Boulevard in Lower Township. The event was attended by veterans, some from World War II and digerians.

Lower marks Armed Forces Day

Cape May historian and author Robert Heilfey, of the Mid-Atlantic Center for the Arts and Humanities, addresses the crowd during the Armed Forces Day celebration in Lower Township. At right, state Sen. Jeff Van Drew delivers a speech.

A.C. sore spot in otherwise rosy economic outlook

By KRISTEN KELLHER
Cape May Star and Wave

ATLANTIC CITY — Atlantic City may have a difficult head of steam from other southern New Jersey towns.

Wineries may have a difficult head of steam from other southern New Jersey towns. Wineries will be limited to serving alcoholic beverages and art exhibits.

The case calls into question what should constitute a special occasion event conducted for the Right-to-Farm Act. At issue was how special occasions events are to be conducted on preserved farmland at wineries.

The Mid-Atlantic Center for the Arts and Humanities hosted an Armed Forces Day event May 16 at Fire Control Tower 23 on Sunset Boulevard in Lower Township. The event was attended by veterans, some from World War II and digerians.

Lower marks Armed Forces Day

Cape May historian and author Robert Heilfey, of the Mid-Atlantic Center for the Arts and Humanities, addresses the crowd during the Armed Forces Day celebration in Lower Township. At right, state Sen. Jeff Van Drew delivers a speech.

A.C. sore spot in otherwise rosy economic outlook

By KRISTEN KELLHER
Cape May Star and Wave

ATLANTIC CITY — Atlantic City may have a difficult head of steam from other southern New Jersey towns.

Wineries may have a difficult head of steam from other southern New Jersey towns. Wineries will be limited to serving alcoholic beverages and art exhibits.

The case calls into question what should constitute a special occasion event conducted for the Right-to-Farm Act. At issue was how special occasions events are to be conducted on preserved farmland at wineries.

The Mid-Atlantic Center for the Arts and Humanities hosted an Armed Forces Day event May 16 at Fire Control Tower 23 on Sunset Boulevard in Lower Township. The event was attended by veterans, some from World War II and digerians.

Lower marks Armed Forces Day

Cape May historian and author Robert Heilfey, of the Mid-Atlantic Center for the Arts and Humanities, addresses the crowd during the Armed Forces Day celebration in Lower Township. At right, state Sen. Jeff Van Drew delivers a speech.

A.C. sore spot in otherwise rosy economic outlook

By KRISTEN KELLHER
Cape May Star and Wave

ATLANTIC CITY — Atlantic City may have a difficult head of steam from other southern New Jersey towns.

Wineries may have a difficult head of steam from other southern New Jersey towns. Wineries will be limited to serving alcoholic beverages and art exhibits.

The case calls into question what should constitute a special occasion event conducted for the Right-to-Farm Act. At issue was how special occasions events are to be conducted on preserved farmland at wineries.

The Mid-Atlantic Center for the Arts and Humanities hosted an Armed Forces Day event May 16 at Fire Control Tower 23 on Sunset Boulevard in Lower Township. The event was attended by veterans, some from World War II and digerians.

Lower marks Armed Forces Day

Cape May historian and author Robert Heilfey, of the Mid-Atlantic Center for the Arts and Humanities, addresses the crowd during the Armed Forces Day celebration in Lower Township. At right, state Sen. Jeff Van Drew delivers a speech.