Should raised home lose status?

By Jack Fichter

CAPE MAY — The Mad Batter Restaurant & Bar has applied to the Cape May Historic Preservation Commission (HPC) to extend a roof and add a screened-in porch to its building at 329 Congress St. The application targets a non-rated and a homeowner would set a precedent.

He said moving a house

CAPE MAY — The Mad Batter Restaurant & Bar has applied to the Cape May Historic Preservation Commission (HPC) to extend a roof and add a screened-in porch to its building at 329 Congress St. The application targets a non-rated and a homeowner would set a precedent.

He said moving a house

CAPE MAY — The Mad Batter Restaurant & Bar has applied to the Cape May Historic Preservation Commission (HPC) to extend a roof and add a screened-in porch to its building at 329 Congress St. The application targets a non-rated and a homeowner would set a precedent.

He said moving a house

CAPE MAY — The Mad Batter Restaurant & Bar has applied to the Cape May Historic Preservation Commission (HPC) to extend a roof and add a screened-in porch to its building at 329 Congress St. The application targets a non-rated and a homeowner would set a precedent.