CAPE MAY — City Council will amend an ordinance creating a month-long temporary outdoor seating initiative, regulations for which the council will want to have in place before summer.

During a March 21, Mayor Chuck Lear said council had received a lot of feedback and would address the issue again at a council meeting April 19, with a hearing set for May 2. The mayor said the December adjournment for a four-month prime season of seating at bars, restaurants and hotels and to charge a fee for each seat, likely reducing and hotels and to charge a fee for each seat, likely reducing and hotels and to charge a fee for each seat, likely reducing
