Cape May Point to separate clerk, administrator job

Cape MAY POINT — Through Commissioners introduced an ordinance April 14 to split the clerk, administrator job into two separate positions. This follows the decision not to reappoint Kimberly Holsdun as clerk administrator at the end of her term as clerk and retains her as administrator earlier this month.

The ordinance was introduced in January, according to Commissioner Diane VanHoesey. The ordinance, if passed, would effectively create two new positions. The administrator would oversee the administration of the government and the clerk would handle day-to-day operations.

The ordinance will be considered at the next meeting of the Cape May Point Commission, scheduled for May 5th.

Cape May — Cape May City Elementary School is using an anti-bullying program called Green Dots in which students tell other students to stop any unkind behavior.

Each student is given a Green Dot card that represents a teacher or anyone taking a stand against bullies, while red dots represent bullies.

We really encourage the children not to be bystanders but rather to take an active role against any bullying or unkindness they see throughout the school.

Fifth-grade teacher Madeline Hofd said the students search for the Green Dots, asking if the person has been aggressive or unkind.

The program encourages students to report bullies and to support those who are being bullied.

The Green Dot program is effective in preventing bullying and promoting a positive school environment.

A festival for the eyes

Tulips bloom in front of the Devonshire condominiums on South Lafayette Street in Cape May.

In years past, the city held Tulip Festivals in April, celebrating the blooming of the city's famous tulips.

This year, the city council has decided to continue the tradition, with plans for a weekend-long event featuring live music, food vendors, and a parade.

The festival will take place on April 22nd and 23rd, with activities for all ages. The event is free to the public and is expected to draw thousands of visitors.
