City to take over fire inspections

By JACK FICHTER
CAPE MAY — City Council introduced an ordinance June 20 in a 5-1 vote to take back fire inspections from the state and transfer them to the May County Park and Zoo.

As far back as 2008, beach businesses and other owners stated their concerns to the Department of Community Affairs about changes to their buildings that would not be effective or practical. A Bureau of Fire Prevention would be created in Cape May rather than requiring fire fighters to conduct the inspections.
