Lower Township mayor accuses Republicans of using FEMA for political contributions. Page A3

most or placing it next to the meeting’s agenda sheet available to the public. In his report, Loper answered questions on the condition of wells. The road was partially closed after Sept. 2 for road restoration.

The meeting continued with a discussion of road restoration. The road was awarded at $320,000, which is the budget estimate. The job will be done with specifications that require an 8 feet as specified. It was noted that Cape May Road would be totally closed after Sept. 2 for road restoration.

See FEMA map, page A2.

Booker runs on Promenade amid run for full term in Senate

by BETTY WURD

Speaker of the State House

VILLAS — Lower Township Municipal Utilities Authority (LTMUA) Superintendent and acting Director Corey Booker challenged the board of commissioners to fire him during a July 8 meeting. Loper, who was acting director of the MUA, said that based on rumors, he believed the board had met and challenged the board to fire him. “Let me paint you the political picture of Lower Township," he said. “The township is in the way with me providing clean, safe drinking water to the public," he said. "If you don’t like me, fire me. I don’t give a rat’s ass for more than they want. We are not paid off by the board, and you have been watching them," he said.

Lower Township mayor accuses Republicans of using FEMA for political contributions. Page A3

most or placing it next to the meeting’s agenda sheet available to the public. In his report, Loper answered questions on the condition of wells. The road was partially closed after Sept. 2 for road restoration.

The meeting continued with a discussion of road restoration. The road was awarded at $320,000, which is the budget estimate. The job will be done with specifications that require an 8 feet as specified. It was noted that Cape May Road would be totally closed after Sept. 2 for road restoration.

See FEMA map, page A2.

Booker runs on Promenade amid run for full term in Senate

by BETTY WURD

Speaker of the State House

VILLAS — Lower Township Municipal Utilities Authority (LTMUA) Superintendent and acting Director Corey Booker challenged the board of commissioners to fire him during a July 8 meeting. Loper, who was acting director of the MUA, said that based on rumors, he believed the board had met and challenged the board to fire him. “Let me paint you the political picture of Lower Township," he said. “The township is in the way with me providing clean, safe drinking water to the public," he said. "If you don’t like me, fire me. I don’t give a rat’s ass for more than they want. We are not paid off by the board, and you have been watching them," he said.

Lower Township mayor accuses Republicans of using FEMA for political contributions. Page A3

most or placing it next to the meeting’s agenda sheet available to the public. In his report, Loper answered questions on the condition of wells. The road was partially closed after Sept. 2 for road restoration.

The meeting continued with a discussion of road restoration. The road was awarded at $320,000, which is the budget estimate. The job will be done with specifications that require an 8 feet as specified. It was noted that Cape May Road would be totally closed after Sept. 2 for road restoration.

See FEMA map, page A2.

Booker runs on Promenade amid run for full term in Senate

by BETTY WURD

Speaker of the State House

VILLAS — Lower Township Municipal Utilities Authority (LTMUA) Superintendent and acting Director Corey Booker challenged the board of commissioners to fire him during a July 8 meeting. Loper, who was acting director of the MUA, said that based on rumors, he believed the board had met and challenged the board to fire him. “Let me paint you the political picture of Lower Township," he said. “The township is in the way with me providing clean, safe drinking water to the public," he said. "If you don’t like me, fire me. I don’t give a rat’s ass for more than they want. We are not paid off by the board, and you have been watching them," he said.

Lower Township mayor accuses Republicans of using FEMA for political contributions. Page A3

most or placing it next to the meeting’s agenda sheet available to the public. In his report, Loper answered questions on the condition of wells. The road was partially closed after Sept. 2 for road restoration.

The meeting continued with a discussion of road restoration. The road was awarded at $320,000, which is the budget estimate. The job will be done with specifications that require an 8 feet as specified. It was noted that Cape May Road would be totally closed after Sept. 2 for road restoration.

See FEMA map, page A2.

Booker runs on Promenade amid run for full term in Senate

by BETTY WURD

Speaker of the State House

VILLAS — Lower Township Municipal Utilities Authority (LTMUA) Superintendent and acting Director Corey Booker challenged the board of commissioners to fire him during a July 8 meeting. Loper, who was acting director of the MUA, said that based on rumors, he believed the board had met and challenged the board to fire him. “Let me paint you the political picture of Lower Township," he said. “The township is in the way with me providing clean, safe drinking water to the public," he said. "If you don’t like me, fire me. I don’t give a rat’s ass for more than they want. We are not paid off by the board, and you have been watching them," he said.

Lower Township mayor accuses Republicans of using FEMA for political contributions. Page A3

most or placing it next to the meeting’s agenda sheet available to the public. In his report, Loper answered questions on the condition of wells. The road was partially closed after Sept. 2 for road restoration.

The meeting continued with a discussion of road restoration. The road was awarded at $320,000, which is the budget estimate. The job will be done with specifications that require an 8 feet as specified. It was noted that Cape May Road would be totally closed after Sept. 2 for road restoration.

See FEMA map, page A2.

Booker runs on Promenade amid run for full term in Senate

by BETTY WURD

Speaker of the State House

VILLAS — Lower Township Municipal Utilities Authority (LTMUA) Superintendent and acting Director Corey Booker challenged the board of commissioners to fire him during a July 8 meeting. Loper, who was acting director of the MUA, said that based on rumors, he believed the board had met and challenged the board to fire him. “Let me paint you the political picture of Lower Township," he said. “The township is in the way with me providing clean, safe drinking water to the public," he said. "If you don’t like me, fire me. I don’t give a rat’s ass for more than they want. We are not paid off by the board, and you have been watching them," he said.

Lower Township mayor accuses Republicans of using FEMA for political contributions. Page A3

most or placing it next to the meeting’s agenda sheet available to the public. In his report, Loper answered questions on the condition of wells. The road was partially closed after Sept. 2 for road restoration.

The meeting continued with a discussion of road restoration. The road was awarded at $320,000, which is the budget estimate. The job will be done with specifications that require an 8 feet as specified. It was noted that Cape May Road would be totally closed after Sept. 2 for road restoration.

See FEMA map, page A2.

Booker runs on Promenade amid run for full term in Senate

by BETTY WURD

Speaker of the State House

VILLAS — Lower Township Municipal Utilities Authority (LTMUA) Superintendent and acting Director Corey Booker challenged the board of commissioners to fire him during a July 8 meeting. Loper, who was acting director of the MUA, said that based on rumors, he believed the board had met and challenged the board to fire him. “Let me paint you the political picture of Lower Township," he said. “The township is in the way with me providing clean, safe drinking water to the public," he said. "If you don’t like me, fire me. I don’t give a rat’s ass for more than they want. We are not paid off by the board, and you have been watching them," he said.

Lower Township mayor accuses Republicans of using FEMA for political contributions. Page A3

most or placing it next to the meeting’s agenda sheet available to the public. In his report, Loper answered questions on the condition of wells. The road was partially closed after Sept. 2 for road restoration.

The meeting continued with a discussion of road restoration. The road was awarded at $320,000, which is the budget estimate. The job will be done with specifications that require an 8 feet as specified. It was noted that Cape May Road would be totally closed after Sept. 2 for road restoration.

See FEMA map, page A2.