Task force to tackle economic development

Its foremost goal is to create full-time, year-round employment in First District

By ERIC AVEDISSIAN

CAPE MAY COURT HOUSE — Failing the need to reverse the “culture of unreality” in southern New Jersey, legislative leaders Dec. 3 appointed a bipartisan task force to examine and make recommendations for economic development in First Legislative District. The legislature held a same-conference as front of their Cape May Court House offices to discuss the goals of the First Legislative District Economic Development Task Force.

The task force was created by legislation SB-615, sponsored by Van Drew, in the spring. It’ll be charged with identifying policies, methods of regulation and incentives to bolster economic opportunity and create full-time employment in the district.

The bipartisan task force consists of local officials, representatives of academia and the business community. Van Drew acknowledged that within the First Legislative District, Cape May and Cumberland counties, and Corbin City, Estell Manor and Weymouth Township in Atlantic County, Van Drew said, “the task force’s work is focuses on a critical area of concern” and additional members can be appointed “at any time.”

According to Van Drew, the First Legislative District has the lowest per capita income rate in New Jersey, and the highest unemployment rate, childhood obesity rate, teen pregnancy rate, and highest rates of domestic violence, infant mortality, gang violence, substance abuse, and drug abuse.

Date set for referendum

The date for the referendum on Cape May’s bid to withdraw from the Lower Cape May Regional School District has been set for Dec. 9.

Work begins at site of replica lifesaving station

VILLAS — The Cape May Maritime Museum has taken another big step forward with the site to reconstruct a 19th century lifesaving station.

The process to begin construction was accomplished with the award of a Coastal Area Facilities Review Act, or CAFRA, permit for the construction.

Maloney said that end of “our vision of bringing this station back to life.”
