CAPE MAY — Informed surveys show tourism was solid for Cape May in 2015. Cape May County Chamber of Commerce President Ron Goldstein said the city seemed like “a living museum,” with the region experiencing a number of cultural, historical, and natural events.

“From the beginning of the year to the end of the summer, we’ve seen a lot of great events and activities around the city, which is why we’re seeing a lot of tourism this year,” Goldstein said.

“Cape May has a lot of things to offer visitors, whether it’s the history of the city, the beaches, or the famous aquarium,” he added.

According to Desatnick, the removal of the bikes, “has been a very good move” for the city. “We’ve had no complaints about the bikes, and the area is much more clean and safe,” he said.

Desatnick added that the city has had no public complaints about the removal of the bikes, and that the area is much more clean and safe.

“I think the city has made a very wise decision in removing the bikes,” he said.

Desatnick said the city is considering other measures to prevent bike riders from using the Promenade, such as installing barriers or划定特定的区域不允许骑自行车。
