Meier calls for better communication with nonprofits

By JACK FICTHER
Cape May Star and Wave

CAPT. MAY — Fire Chief Cornish Chartier was called out of town and had to leave the city for business, according to a press release issued by the city of Cape May. The release stated that Chartier had been working on a project to replace ocean outfall pipes from Wilmington to Madison avenues in Cape May and was not available to return the call.

The project is scheduled to be completed by the end of April. The project was awarded to a contractor who is responsible for replacing the ocean outfall pipes on Cape May. The contractor is working to replace the pipes from the point where they enter the ocean to the point where they come ashore in Cape May. The contractor is responsible for replacing the pipes on a monthly basis, and the work is expected to be completed by the end of April.

County receives OK to work later on Cape May outfall pipe project

By JACK FICTHER
Cape May-Star and Wave

CAPT. MAY — A county project to replace ocean outfall pipes in Cape May has been approved to work later than the normal cutoff time of 6 p.m.

The county's project to replace ocean outfall pipes in Cape May is scheduled to begin in April and will replace the pipes from Wilmington to Madison avenues in Cape May. The project is expected to be completed by the end of April.

Police administer Narcan to unconscious woman

MORRISTOWN — Local police administered Narcan to a woman who was found unconscious outside a residence in Morristown. The woman was found on a bed on the lower level of a residence in the 3000 block of Park Avenue in Morristown. The woman was found to be unconscious and in need of medical attention. The police administered Narcan to the woman and she was transported to the hospital for further treatment.

Narcan is a medication that is used to treat opioid overdose. It is a non-opioid and is used to reverse the effects of an opioid overdose. The medication is administered by a nasal spray and is effective in reversing the effects of an opioid overdose within minutes.

The woman was found to be unconscious and in need of medical attention. The police administered Narcan to the woman and she was transported to the hospital for further treatment.

Cape May’s main street to be one-way

A contractor is replacing eight beach outfall pipes from Wilmington to Madison avenues in Cape May and has gotten permission to work later than the normal cutoff time of 6 p.m.

The contractor is working to replace the ocean outfall pipes on Cape May. The contractor is responsible for replacing the pipes on a monthly basis, and the work is expected to be completed by the end of April.

The contractor is working to replace the ocean outfall pipes on Cape May. The contractor is responsible for replacing the pipes on a monthly basis, and the work is expected to be completed by the end of April.

The contractor is working to replace the ocean outfall pipes on Cape May. The contractor is responsible for replacing the pipes on a monthly basis, and the work is expected to be completed by the end of April.