TOWNSEND after commission’s work session Jan. 31 and commission’s vote to approve a subdivision of running a street in a new subdivision for Voorhees. Voorhees was mayor of West Cape May for 24 years, serving from May 2001 until May 2015. He was honored by the New Jersey State League of Municipalities (NJSLM) at its annual awards gala of Hall of Fame in all gold level, which brings him to 20 years of mayoral service. In 1991, he was selected as Republican of the Year and he served on the county Municipalities Authority for many years. He represented the third generation of a Black West Cape May family and many of pieces of property and members of John AIMH Church in Cape May. Voorhees was known by the largest summer owned family. Voorhees had a trust-business relationship that served West Cape May and the city of Cape May. Voorhees was mayor of West Cape May on March 23. A public hearing on the 2016 municipal budget brought no comment from the public and was adopted by Borough Commission. The $3.2 million budget will have a 1.5% tax-rate increase which would increase the amounts from 31.5 cents per $100 of assessed value to 39.4 cents, an increase of 5 percent.

The local property tax contributes $1.1 million toward the budget. The borough has a 97.29 percent collection rate. It is a borough trial tax increase to meet the increase in the decrease of the amount of funds to pay for the budget from 2015.

The fire department has been the subject of hours that were put in helping people in need, and for fire, tufferness and other natural things.

"It’s a great way for the community to show their commitment to the natural environment. Come out and meet your neighbors, change the way you process and do something good for the environment," said Chris Ridgway, Chief Steward of the West Cape May Environmental Commission. The community is invited to join the West Cape May Environmental Commission in an open space cleanup from 9 am to 4 pm Saturday, April 23.

Participants should meet at the open space located on Bayshore Road and West Avenue. The lot is located by 160 feet and has been marked for open space. The project entails removing invasive species and replanting with native plants to provide a natural environment for birds and for butterflies, butterflies and other native things.

"Thank you for the great community that we are able to show their commitment to the natural environment. Come out and meet your neighbors, change the way you process and do something good for the environment," said Chris Ridgway, Chief Steward of the West Cape May Environmental Commission.

The commissioners discuss the possibility of making the necessary changes to the existing development plans in order to enable them to reach the goals. The commissioners discuss other ways the community could support communities. They suggest other ways the community could support the community and vehicles. They also discuss the possibility of making the necessary changes to the existing development plans in order to enable them to reach the goals. They suggest other ways the community could support the community and vehicles. They also discuss the possibility of making the necessary changes to the existing development plans in order to enable them to reach the goals. The commissioners discuss other ways the community could support the community and vehicles. They also discuss the possibility of making the necessary changes to the existing development plans in order to enable them to reach the goals.

The commissioners discuss other ways the community could support the community and vehicles. They also discuss the possibility of making the necessary changes to the existing development plans in order to enable them to reach the goals.

The commissioners discuss other ways the community could support the community and vehicles. They also discuss the possibility of making the necessary changes to the existing development plans in order to enable them to reach the goals.