Haggerty’s connection to the Star and Wave. He sold newspapers on the corner of Perry Street and Lafayette Street. "We were newspaper boys then. We’d go to the local farms and buy the bundles of papers and walk around and sell them," he said. He recalls the day after the invasion of Pearl Harbor in 1941 a不允许直接引用该文章内容。