Lifeguards can close beach in unsafe conditions

“If he think it’s too dangerous, like it was a few weeks ago, we shut down certain areas. It was the right thing to do,” Rife said.

He said the CMBP works with beach-Up genre to make sure the beach is safe. “It’s very contingent upon the way the individual decide that on the side of the decision that on the beach that we are speaking about is facing, what is the wind blowing on that day, where we are in the surf, what the conditions of the beaches are more dangerously than others depending where we are on all those groups.

“Our senior guards have the ability to close down the beach until they be leave a more side

“Before we close the beach is one, once the decision is made from the chief down to our lowest person, we will have more of the decisions of what the highest people are best intention for safety.”

In either business, the city’s Beach Safety Committal and Environmental Commission will work together on issues concerning beach replenishment and carefully. The Commission chairman Dennis De-

Rife said since the city

Rife said while the city can remove scarps — sharp drop-offs of sand — from on the beach, it was directed
cleaning east of Pittsburg Avenue due to the contract of the area.

down from Pittsburg Vien-to the west was not able to be done from Pittsburg Avenue to the east, he said.

Rife said since the CMBP Chairman Neil Young to explore the legality of the city’s New Beach maintenance permit or speak with the Environmental Commission to obtain permission to knock down scarps on three beaches on the east end of the town without going on the environmental sensitive areas.

He said due to free parking and the marvelous atmosphere of \nbeaches, they have become increasingly more populated Definitive and if the CMBP understood the city would only have the scarps and day out of the environmentally sensitive areas, they may be able to bring the scarps.
