The Historic Preservation Commission approved plans for the expansion of the Beach Shack. The proposal will need final approval from the Planning Board.

Shepanski stated that they are considering an inch and a quarter seats in addition to a colonial seam that is a true inch. Board member Crystal Mullock asked about a different consideration for the type of glass railings.

“The side on the other portion of the building, there is going to be a glass panel. One of the glass railings on the top floor, the building is going to be turned over and create a seating area, which now our plan is going to be moved and replaced with a slightly different glass,” Shepanski said. “As part of our improvement plan, we are considering an inch and a quarter seats, which now our plan is going to be moved and replaced with a slightly different glass.”
