Panel to set fees, number of temporary outdoor seats

County tech school offering high diploma testing

The Cape May Court House — The Cape May County Technical School is seeking applications for the High School Equivalency (HSE) program. The program provides an opportunity for individuals who did not complete high school to obtain an equivalency diploma. The school is located at the Cape May Court House campus in the City Hall auditorium.

The test in general education includes reading and literacy skills. To qualify for the test, applicants should be at least 16 years old, a resident of New Jersey and not currently enrolled in high school.

The test fee is $10.

Applications are available at the school office or online through the NJ Passport website.

For more information, contact Margo Gravelle at 609-988-3456.

City regulations require one parking space for every 1,200 square feet of floor space. Businesses with more than one parking space may not use the unused spaces for outdoor seating. The city has allowed for parking spaces for eight temporary seats.

An annual fee of $1,120 would be assessed for each temporary outdoor seat. The fee would go into the general fund and that would be used for the sole purpose of funding alternative parking in addition to more temporary outdoor seating.

City Manager Bruce MacLeod said the maximum number of seats allowed to produce annually, if in consonance with the HSE test is now computer-based, and not cur- rently administered by the Department of State. Those who were attempting to register one week prior to the HSE test scored at 25 percent of the maximum. He said most business- owners would provide full service anywhere on site.

MacLeod said some busi- nesses in town have increment- ally added seats for which approval has not been sought.

MacLeod said that a business with a mercantile license stating the establishment is entitled to 20 seats, those are not be- ing applied for under the temporary seating provision, MacLeod said.

“Businesses have been approved for seats in which beverages are served and in which a customer is allowed to eat, while temporarily added seats for dining.

MacLeod said some busi- nesses in town have incremen- tally added seats for which approval has not been sought.

MacLeod said that a business with a mercantile license stating the establishment is entitled to 20 seats, those are not being applied for under the temporary seating provision, MacLeod said.

“Businesses have been approved for seats in which beverages are served and in which a customer is allowed to eat, while temporarily added seats for dining.

MacLeod said some busi- nesses in town have incremen- tally added seats for which approval has not been sought.

MacLeod said that a business with a mercantile license stating the establishment is entitled to 20 seats, those are not being applied for under the temporary seating provision, MacLeod said.

“Businesses have been approved for seats in which beverages are served and in which a customer is allowed to eat, while temporarily added seats for dining.

MacLeod said some busi- nesses in town have incremen- tally added seats for which approval has not been sought.

MacLeod said that a business with a mercantile license stating the establishment is entitled to 20 seats, those are not being applied for under the temporary seating provision, MacLeod said.

“Businesses have been approved for seats in which beverages are served and in which a customer is allowed to eat, while temporarily added seats for dining.

MacLeod said some busi- nesses in town have incremen- tally added seats for which approval has not been sought.

MacLeod said that a business with a mercantile license stating the establishment is entitled to 20 seats, those are not being applied for under the temporary seating provision, MacLeod said.

“Businesses have been approved for seats in which beverages are served and in which a customer is allowed to eat, while temporarily added seats for dining.

MacLeod said some busi- nesses in town have incremen- tally added seats for which approval has not been sought.

MacLeod said that a business with a mercantile license stating the establishment is entitled to 20 seats, those are not being applied for under the temporary seating provision, MacLeod said.

“Businesses have been approved for seats in which beverages are served and in which a customer is allowed to eat, while temporarily added seats for dining.

MacLeod said some busi- nesses in town have incremen- tally added seats for which approval has not been sought.

MacLeod said that a business with a mercantile license stating the establishment is entitled to 20 seats, those are not being applied for under the temporary seating provision, MacLeod said.

“Businesses have been approved for seats in which beverages are served and in which a customer is allowed to eat, while temporarily added seats for dining.

MacLeod said some busi- nesses in town have incremen- tally added seats for which approval has not been sought.

MacLeod said that a business with a mercantile license stating the establishment is entitled to 20 seats, those are not being applied for under the temporary seating provision, MacLeod said.

“Businesses have been approved for seats in which beverages are served and in which a customer is allowed to eat, while temporarily added seats for dining.

MacLeod said some busi- nesses in town have incremen- tally added seats for which approval has not been sought.

MacLeod said that a business with a mercantile license stating the establishment is entitled to 20 seats, those are not being applied for under the temporary seating provision, MacLeod said.

“Businesses have been approved for seats in which beverages are served and in which a customer is allowed to eat, while temporarily added seats for dining.

MacLeod said some busi- nesses in town have incremen- tally added seats for which approval has not been sought.

MacLeod said that a business with a mercantile license stating the establishment is entitled to 20 seats, those are not being applied for under the temporary seating provision, MacLeod said.

“Businesses have been approved for seats in which beverages are served and in which a customer is allowed to eat, while temporarily added seats for dining.

MacLeod said some busi- nesses in town have incremen- tally added seats for which approval has not been sought.

MacLeod said that a business with a mercantile license stating the establishment is entitled to 20 seats, those are not being applied for under the temporary seating provision, MacLeod said.

“Businesses have been approved for seats in which beverages are served and in which a customer is allowed to eat, while temporarily added seats for dining.

MacLeod said some busi- nesses in town have incremen- tally added seats for which approval has not been sought.

MacLeod said that a business with a mercantile license stating the establishment is entitled to 20 seats, those are not being applied for under the temporary seating provision, MacLeod said.

“Businesses have been approved for seats in which beverages are served and in which a customer is allowed to eat, while temporarily added seats for dining.

MacLeod said some busi- nesses in town have incremen- tally added seats for which approval has not been sought.

MacLeod said that a business with a mercantile license stating the establishment is entitled to 20 seats, those are not being applied for under the temporary seating provision, MacLeod said.

“Businesses have been approved for seats in which beverages are served and in which a customer is allowed to eat, while temporarily added seats for dining.

MacLeod said some busi- nesses in town have incremen- tally added seats for which approval has not been sought.

MacLeod said that a business with a mercantile license stating the establishment is entitled to 20 seats, those are not being applied for under the temporary seating provision, MacLeod said.

“Businesses have been approved for seats in which beverages are served and in which a customer is allowed to eat, while temporarily added seats for dining.

MacLeod said some busi- nesses in town have incremen- tally added seats for which approval has not been sought.

MacLeod said that a business with a mercantile license stating the establishment is entitled to 20 seats, those are not being applied for under the temporary seating provision, MacLeod said.

“Businesses have been approved for seats in which beverages are served and in which a customer is allowed to eat, while temporarily added seats for dining.

MacLeod said some busi- nesses in town have incremen- tally added seats for which approval has not been sought.

MacLeod said that a business with a mercantile license stating the establishment is entitled to 20 seats, those are not being applied for under the temporary seating provision, MacLeod said.

“Businesses have been approved for seats in which beverages are served and in which a customer is allowed to eat, while temporarily added seats for dining.

MacLeod said some busi- nesses in town have incremen- tally added seats for which approval has not been sought.

MacLeod said that a business with a mercantile license stating the establishment is entitled to 20 seats, those are not being applied for under the temporary seating provision, MacLeod said.

“Businesses have been approved for seats in which beverages are served and in which a customer is allowed to eat, while temporarily added seats for dining.

MacLeod said some busi- nesses in town have incremen- tally added seats for which approval has not been sought.

MacLeod said that a business with a mercantile license stating the establishment is entitled to 20 seats, those are not being applied for under the temporary seating provision, MacLeod said.

“Businesses have been approved for seats in which beverages are served and in which a customer is allowed to eat, while temporarily added seats for dining.

MacLeod said some busi- nesses in town have incremen- tally added seats for which approval has not been sought.