Stockton University has a jackpot with A.C. campus

By Eric Avdiussian
Camden

Atlantic City — When Stockton University opened its Atlantic City Campus in September, the spirits of many seniors were lifted.

The university conducted a celebration at the Campus Center, welcoming the freshmen to the facility, which offers a range of academic programs, administrative offices, computer labs and a computer center. The event also included the unveiling of the university’s new mascot, the Crusader.

The mascot was revealed to the students in the Campus Center during the event, which was attended by numerous students, faculty, staff and guests.

The mascot, a humanoid figure with a cricket-like body, was named “Crusader,” a nod to the university’s athletic teams.

The mascot was designed by a local artist and was created using a combination of traditional and digital techniques.

The mascot was unveiled to the students in the Campus Center during the event, which was attended by numerous students, faculty, staff and guests.

The mascot was revealed to the students in the Campus Center during the event, which was attended by numerous students, faculty, staff and guests.

The mascot was designed by a local artist and was created using a combination of traditional and digital techniques.